Sophie Q. Wang joined Rosenberg & Estis, P.C. in 2025 and is an Associate with the firm's Litigation Department.

Wang is a practicing attorney in New York with over a decade of experience, including more than eight years concentrating on complex commercial and real estate litigation. Her practice spans construction disputes, partnership and shareholder conflicts, investment matters, and general business litigation.

Wang represents owners, developers, contractors, and investors in lien foreclosure actions, trust fund diversion claims, breach of contract disputes, partnership litigation, and other commercial conflicts. She has extensive experience with mechanics lien law, trust fund claims, construction contract negotiations, dispute resolution, and litigation before both New York courts and the American Arbitration Association.

In addition to her litigation practice, Wang regularly drafts and negotiates a wide range of construction agreements, such as AIA contracts, construction management agreements, subcontractor agreements, and license agreements.

Prior to joining Rosenberg & Estis, Wang was a Partner with Muchmore & Hollander LLP, where she handled a wide range of construction and commercial disputes and frequently authored articles on topics within her areas of expertise.

Wang is fluent in English, Mandarin Chinese, and Shanghaiese.
